ABSTRACT

This document is a guide to selected detective and mystery stories produced after the publication of the 1982 bibliography "Mysteries." All books listed are available on cassette or in braille in the network library collections provided by the National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped of the Library of Congress. In addition to this large-print edition, the bibliography is available on disc and braille formats. This edition contains approximately 700 titles available on cassette and in braille, while the disc edition lists only cassettes, and the braille edition, only braille. Books available on flexible disk are cited at the end of the annotation of the cassette version. The bibliography is divided into a Prolific Authors section, for authors with more than six titles listed, and Other Authors section, a short stories section and a section for multiple authors. Each citation contains a short summary of the plot. An order form for the cited items is included. An alphabetical index is also provided. (SLD)

Introduction

More Mysteries is a guide to selected detective and mystery stories produced after the publication of the 1982 bibliography Mysteries. All books listed are available on cassette or in braille in the network library collections provided by the National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Library of Congress.

This bibliography is available in large-print, disc, and braille formats. The large-print edition contains approximately 700 titles available on cassette and in braille. The disc edition lists only cassettes; the braille edition lists only braille. In the large-print and disc editions, books available on flexible disc are cited at the end of the annotation of the cassette version.

Mysteries attract a wide variety of people as readers and as writers. At the most basic level is the lure of a puzzle. Agatha Christie confessed that she enjoyed planning her mysteries much more than writing them. William Marshall has pointed out that mysteries provide the opportunity to visit various levels of society. In many other types of fiction the action takes place in a narrow social setting. An investigator, however, is free to travel through various levels of society and ask questions along the way.

In many cases the background of the author adds authenticity to the portrait. Many mystery writers have experience with police work and strive for a realistic portrait to counter the shoot-'em-up cliché. Joseph Wambaugh and Dorothy Uhnak are both former detectives. He served on the Los Angeles police force, she, on the New York City police force. P.D. James was a civil servant in the criminal department of the British Department of Home Affairs. John Mortimer and Andrew Vachss are both lawyers; Vachss at one time was director of a maximum security institution.

Other writers turn to mysteries as a diversion from academic work. Amanda Cross, creator of Kate Fansler, the professorial amateur detective, is a professor of English literature named Carolyn Heilbrun. Ralph McInerney is a professor of medieval philosophy and Martha Grimes, of English literature. Dorothy L. Sayers's background as a medievalist showed when Lord Peter Wimsey proposed marriage in Latin at the end of Gaudy Night. Umberto Eco incorporates his concerns as a semiotician into the fabric of his novels. Margaret Truman was working on a book about the White House when it occurred to her that she would rather use the White House as a setting for a murder mystery.

Some authors are so prolific that their writing would have left little time for other professions. Georges Simenon and John Creasey each wrote more than 500 novels. Both used a variety of pseudonyms with Creasey creating a different name to sign to each of his detective series. Agatha Christie jokingly compared her output to that of a sausage factory.

Perhaps the most powerful draw of the mystery is the personality of the detective, whose life frequently goes on beyond that of the author. John Creasey, under the name J.J. Marric, created Inspector Gideon. Since Creasey's death a new Marric has risen to the challenge of continuing Gideon's adventures. Robert B. Parker took the four chapters that Raymond Chandler had written of Poodle Springs and completed the Philip Marlowe novel. Later Parker decided to write a Philip Marlowe tale of his own,

Introduction

Perchance to Dream, a sequel to The Big Sleep.

This bibliography is divided into three sections. The Prolific Authors section covers authors who have more than six titles listed. Titles are first separated for author, then arranged alphabetically by title under headings for cassette and braille. If an author writes about a particular detective, the name of that character is provided. In the Other Authors section, books are separated by medium, then arranged alphabetically by author. The Short Stories section is divided between collections by a single author and anthologies by multiple authors, then by medium and title. To locate books, check under the appropriate medium in either the table of contents or the alphabetical author-title index.

To order books, fill out the order form at the back of the bibliography and send it to your cooperating library. Book numbers are separated according the media. Flexible-disc numbers have a separate listing.

Prolific Authors

Robert Barnard

Detectives: Perry Trethowan and Others

Cassettes

At Death's Door RC 29317
narrated by John Horton
2 cassettes
A famous novelist lies old, ill, and helpless upstairs in his house. One day his illegitimate daughter, the product of a liaison with an actress, arrives researching a vitriolic biography of her mother. The actress comes to thwart the biography, and is found dead. Some strong language. 1988.

Bodies RC 25356
narrated by James DeLotel
1 cassette
In the Soho studio of Bodies magazine are found four corpses: a photographer, his assistant, an actress-student, and a young bodybuilder. Superintendent Perry Trethowan of the London police has difficulty finding a motive for the murders, but a few leads point to star muscle-man Crabtree, who is involved in porn flicks. Some strong language and some descriptions of sex. 1986.

The Cherry Blossom Corpse RC 26616
narrated by George Patterson
2 cassettes
As a favor to his shy sister Cristobel, a fledgling romance author, Perry Trethowan of Scotland Yard goes to Norway for the biannual jamboree of the World Association of Romantic Novelists. When one of the pulp queens is found dead in a fjord, an apparent homicide victim, Perry wrestles with several of the suspects' alibis. 1987.

Corpse in a Gilded Cage RC 22002
narrated by David Palmer
2 cassettes
A satiric murder entertainment that comments on the British class system. A lower-class English couple, Perce and Elsie, somehow inherit a palatial mansion and a title. Perce insists he wants to sell the estate despite his family's conflicting ideas of what to do with Chetton Hall. When Perce is found murdered after his sixtieth birthday party, everyone in the family is considered a suspect. 1984.

Death and the Chaste Apprentice RC 32554
narrated by George Patterson
2 cassettes
Des Capper, landlord of the Saracen's Head Inn near London, is a less-than-sterling character, what with spying on guests and intruding on intimate moments. The annual Ketterick Arts Festival has filled the inn with opera singers, actors, and musicians, and when murder occurs, detective Charlie Peace finds dark and surprising secrets. 1989.

Death by Sheer Torture RC 19680
narrated by Don Emmick
2 cassettes
A young police inspector unofficially assists in the investigation of his father's kinky murder. Reacquainting himself with his eccentric family, he finds that everybody has a motive and each relative seems uniquely qualified to kill. 1981.

Death in a Cold Climate RC 16831
narrated by David Palmer
1 cassette
The body of a young Englishman is discovered buried in the snow of a small Norwegian town high above the Arctic Circle. Inspector Fagermo of the Norwegian police investigates a three-month-old trail with little help from the townspeople, who regard him with icy hostility. 1981.

Death of a Perfect Mother RC 18944
narrated by Phyllis Fabara
1 cassette
Everyone is pleased but puzzled when Lill, who tyrannized her family and her lover, is strangled on her way home from the pub. A lot of people wanted her dead—two were plotting her murder, and a not-very-bright detective on his first murder case fastens on the first obvious suspect. 1981.

A Little Local Murder RC 19558
narrated by Douglas Seale
2 cassettes
The English village of Twytching has been selected as the subject of a radio documentary to be aired in its twin town of Twytching, Wisconsin. Villagers are agog as they vie fiercely with one another to appear on the program. When the woman who seems most likely to get on the air is found with her head bashed in, Inspector Parrish searches for the murderer. 1976.

The Skeleton in the Grass RC 28173
narrated by Lisette Lecat
2 cassettes
Whodunit set in England in 1936. Sarah Causeley signs on as governess to the Hallams, a family of intellectual and political renown in rural Oxfordshire. The Hallams are of a pacifist persuasion, and with the rise of fascism in Germany and the Civil War in Spain, they are not too popular. Their unpopularity actually leads to murder, and Sarah is drawn into the murder case as well. 1987.

Simon Brett

Detectives: Charles Paris, Mrs. Pargeter, and Others

Cassettes

Mrs., Presumed Dead RC 32477
narrated by George Patterson
2 cassettes
Mr. Pargeter's dubious pursuits prior to his death eighteen months ago have left his widow Melita well off. She has moved into Smithy's Loam, a cul-de-sac of six elegant executive homes. The former owners seem to be missing and, indeed, turn up dead. Mrs. Pargeter, together with her husband's former business "accomplices," track down the truth. 1988.

Murder in the Title RC 19645
narrated by Norman Barrs
2 cassettes
Actor and amateur detective Charles Paris is doing very badly with a bit part as a corpse in a terrible play at a rundown theatre in a second-rate British resort. But Charles discovers that there's more amiss than artistic quality when he is nearly murdered on stage. Some strong language. 1983.

Murder Unprompted RC 19100
narrated by Adam Norton
1 cassette
Stage actor and amateur sleuth Charles Paris investigates the murder of the leading actor during the opening night of a London play. The prime suspect is the murdered actor's understudy, but Paris has other suspects in mind. 1982.

A Nice Class of Corpse RC 26072
narrated by George Patterson
1 cassette
Mystery features Mrs. Pargeter, an amiable and rich widow, who moves into a "nice" hotel for "nice" elderly men and women. The guests conduct themselves according to a routine set by the prim owner, but Mrs. Pargeter ignores these rules. Curious about everyone in the place, she ponders events following the fatal fall of one harmless one lady and the odd behavior of another. She uncovers some murders and some startling facts about both the innocent and the guilty. 1986.

A Series of Murders RC 31360
by Simon Brett
narrated by Patrick Horgan
1 cassette
Charles Paris, sometime actor and oftentime imbiber, is employed to play Sergeant Clump of the Little Breckington Police in a "telly" mystery series. He is foil to the lead character, Stanislas Braid—played by the egotistical Russell Bentley. Ingenue Sippy Stokes is really dreadful in her part, but murdering her seems a little extreme. 1989.

Braille

Dead Romantic BR 6621
2 volumes
Language teacher Madeleine Severn, a comely virgin nearly forty, is being discreetly courted by Bernard, a colleague. Madeleine is finally ready to exorcise memories of a long-dead love and discover the joys of sex with Bernard by planning a secret love-weekend at Winter Jasmine Cottage. But the tryst is interrupted by murder. Some descriptions of sex. 1985.

Murder Unprompted BR 5351
2 volumes
Stage actor and amateur sleuth Charles Paris investigates the murder of the leading actor during the opening night of a London play. The prime suspect is the murdered actor's understudy, but Paris has other suspects in mind. 1982.

Not Dead, Only Resting BR 6028
2 volumes
Actor Charles Paris, currently out of work, takes a job decorating a flat over a fashionable actors' restaurant in London. After discovering the mutilated body of the restaurant owner's lover, Paris is drawn into the investigation of the murder and the disappearance of the chief suspect. 1984.

Agatha Christie

Detectives: Hercule Poirot, Jane Marple, and Others

Cassettes

And Then There Were None RC 11077
narrated by Burt Blackwell
2 cassettes
Ten oddly assorted people find themselves the houseguests of an invisible host who slowly begins killing them one by one. 1967.

The Big Four RC 21373
narrated by Barry Bernson
1 cassette
The Big Four is a virtually invincible criminal conspiracy composed of a brilliant Chinese man, an American millionaire, a French scientist, and an elusive master of disguise. Even Hercule Poirot is appalled as he follows a trail of murders in what could very well prove to be his final case. 1955.

By the Pricking of My Thumbs
RC 23144
narrated by Pamela Brook
2 cassettes
A woman finds herself fascinated by the familiarity of a small house in a painting. A mystery ensues as she tries to find out more about it. 1968.

Cat among Pigeons RC 17942
narrated by Noel Leslie
2 cassettes
Detective Hercule Poirot faces a challenging case when a killer terrorizes a private English school for girls. 1960.

Hickory, Dickory, Death RC 22919
narrated by Guy Sorel
2 cassettes
Hercule Poirot tackles a case of several thefts and a murder in a student hostel. 1955.

The Labors of Hercules RC 18954
narrated by Ann Pugh
2 cassettes
A visit by Dr. Burton, when the conversation dwelt on the classics, leads to the idea of a modern "Labors of Hercules." Poirot decides to undertake twelve cases that have a special reference to the twelve labors of ancient Hercules. Each case appears to be more baffling than the last. 1975.

The Mirror Crack'd RC 21400
narrated by Terry Hayes Sales
2 cassettes
When murder happens almost on Jane Marple's doorstep, she wonders at first if it might have been the wrong murder. 1962.

The Mousetrap* and Other Plays
RC 17144
narrated by Douglas Seale

N or M? RC 25428
narrated by Gary Montgomery
2 cassettes
In wartime England, Johnny Beresford is asked to track down two important German agents, a man and a woman, known only as "N" and "M." 1941.

Ordeal by Innocence RC 25149
narrated by Graeme Malcolm
2 cassettes
Having been convicted of murdering his own mother, troublesome Jack Argyle died in prison, six months after entering to serve his sentence. When the Argyle family learns, two years after the crime, that the alibi unsuccessfully supplied by "Jacko" at his trial was legitimate—thereby establishing his innocence—the frightening question remains: Who did kill Rachel Argyle? And why? 1958.

The Pale Horse RC 25107
narrated by Ray Foushee
2 cassettes
Archeologist Mark Easterbrook investigates the murder of a priest who was killed after a visit to a dying woman. 1961.

Passenger to Frankfurt RC 24945

At the Frankfurt Airport, a young woman appeals to a British diplomat to save her life by letting her borrow his passport and his hooded cloak as a disguise. He soon becomes involved in Project Benvo, a mysterious international plot for world control. 1970.

A Pocket Full of Rye RC 27878
narrated by Flo Gibson
1 cassette
After a wealthy businessman is poisoned to death, the police find a handful of rye in his pocket. Miss Marple arrives to help solve the case when a second victim is dispatched over a snack of bread and honey. 1953.

Unfinished Portrait RC 22842
narrated by Harold Parker
2 cassettes
Since childhood, Celia has been haunted by the face of an unknown man. Now as a young woman, alone in an isolated Spanish room, she comes face to face with the man of her nightmares. 1934.

Braille

At Bertram's Hotel BR 339
4 volumes
The hotel of the title, which Miss Marple knew as a girl, is still a marvel of Edwardian elegance and conservatism—but with a disturbing, off-color touch of something new. 1965.

A Caribbean Mystery BR 107
2 volumes
Ever alert, even on vacation, Miss Marple identifies a killer after the suspicious death of a garrulous old major in a resort hotel. 1964.

The Mousetrap* and Other Plays BR 4992
9 volumes
Collection of eight murder mystery plays by the famous writer. Includes The Mousetrap in which an unknown killer stalks snowbound guests at an isolated inn. Amanda Cross

Detective: Kate Fansler

Cassettes

The James Joyce Murder RC 23327
narrated by Maxine Taylor-Morris
1 cassette
Kate Fansler, a pretty professor and an amateur sleuth, is working with some of James Joyce's letters at her summer home in the Berkshires when an unpleasant local lady is found dead practically on her doorstep. 1967.

No Word from Winifred RC 24454
narrated by Barbara Caruso
2 cassettes
Winifred, a fiftyish American writer and "honorary niece" of the late, great British novelist Charlotte Stanton, disappears in the midst of making arrangements for Stanton's biography. Professor Fansler, a friend of Stanton's would-be biographer, sets out for London to locate Winifred, or her corpse. Some strong language. 1986.

The Players Come Again RC 32520
narrated by Barbara Caruso
2 cassettes
Professor Kate Fansler has finished her book on Henry James and Thomas Hardy and is catching up on correspondence and other long put-off tasks. Publishing-house editor Simon Pearlstine asks Kate to write a biography of Gabrielle Foxx, wife of British literary giant Emmanuel Foxx. Kate accepts the offer, and uncovers a literary mystery and a cache of long-hidden letters. 1990.

Sweet Death, Kind Death RC 22185
narrated by Phil Regensdorf
2 cassettes
Even Kate Fansler, college professor and part-time sleuth, is puzzled by the death of a successful novelist and renowned historian from a prestigious women's college. The victim had everything to live for, even if she did favor old-age suicide, and her apparent suicide by drowning simply doesn't ring true. Furthermore, her peculiar "suicide" letter leaves some very unsettling loose ends. 1984.

The Theban Mysteries RC 29548
narrated by Cecelia Riddett
1 cassette
Kate Fansler, professor of literature and amateur detective, is teaching a seminar on Antigone at her old alma mater, Theban, New York's most exclusive girls' school. As tragedy follows tragedy at the school, Kate becomes caught up in solving the mysteries and discovers some bizarre activities. 1971.

A Trap for Fools RC 30362
narrated by Barbara Caruso
1 cassette
When Professor Canfield Adams is found on the pavement seven floors below his office window at a Manhattan university, the verdict is murder. He was disliked by many people on campus, so, in the hope of preventing a scandal, Professor Kate Fansler is asked to investigate. Then, a student is pushed from her tenth floor apartment, and the race is on to find the killer before other lives are lost. 1989.

Braille

Death in a Tenured Position BR 5121
2 volumes
Smart and well-bred, Kate Fansler is both a professor of English and an amateur detective who finds fun and intrigue during a year's sabbatical at Harvard. Soon after Kate's arrival at the university, she finds her old classmate Janet Mandelbaum, Harvard's first female English professor, dead from cyanide in the men's room. 1981.

Poetic Justice BR 4970
2 volumes
Kate Fansler is an attractive teacher of Victorian literature, with a passion for the poems of twentieth-century poet W.H. Auden. The poems take on a new meaning when death brings mystery to a New York university. The death was either accidental or diabolically planned, with an uncomfortable number of motives pointing directly at Kate. 1970.

Peter Dickinson

Cassettes

Hindsight RC 20167
narrated by John Horton
2 cassettes
Now a successful mystery writer, Paul Rogers marshals his memories of prep school days in the Devon countryside, in particular the memories of one tragic night and a sudden, violent death. As long-suppressed memories surface, Paul realizes that the new truth is far more disturbing than his hazy recollections were. 1983.

King and Joker RC 9959
narrated by Norman Barrs
2 cassettes
Spoof about a mythical kingdom in Britain with a curious reigning family: the king has a live-in mistress, the queen is a Spanish princess, Prince Albert is a vegetarian, and Princess Louise observes everyone. Followed by Skeleton-in-Waiting (RC 31150). 1976.

The Last Houseparty RC 18841
narrated by Norman Barrs
2 cassettes
A subtle mystery, a witty thriller, and a haunting evocation of pre-World War II Britain. A guest at a sumptuous houseparty at Snailwood Castle in 1937 committed a crime that ended a way of life. A stranger who comes to the estate forty years later to repair a clock seems to hold the key to both the clock and the mystery. 1982.

Skeleton-in-Waiting RC 31150
narrated by Norman Barrs
2 cassettes
The death of Grand Duchess Marie Romanov, who fell off a piano trying to catch her parrot, threatens the rest of the royal family with scandal. Lady Surbiton says she will publish the old girl's private —very private—papers. Then there are terrorist attacks, a kidnapping, and all manner of royal mayhem. Sequel to King and Joker (RC 9959). Some strong language. 1989.

Tefuga RC 24934
narrated by Dale Hodges
3 cassettes
With the help of his mother's diary, a British journalist searches deep into the past to discover the secret of his parents' life together in Africa. Arriving in Nigeria to film a docudrama about his parents, Nigel tries to understand why their marriage failed and why his father committed suicide. 1986.

Walking Dead RC 12579
narrated by George Patterson
2 cassettes
An English scientist is sent to a remote Caribbean island nation for an experiment in intelligence boosting, a subject of great interest to the local dictator and especially to his mother, a much feared witch. Spells, voodoo, and witchcraft add to the mystery. Some strong language. 1977.

Braille

About the Free Reading Program

The National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped (NLS) loans books and magazines to individuals who have problems reading because of a visual or physical limitation, temporary or permanent.

Books, playback equipment, headphones, and other aids are delivered by mail. Book descriptions, catalogs, and bibliographies such as this one are also mailed regularly to inform readers of new materials available.

No postage is required to borrow or return books, equipment, and other materials, and all materials are free.

Thousands of books on discs, on cassettes, and in braille are available through a network of cooperating libraries. Fiction and nonfiction selections include classics, romances, science fiction, biographies, bestsellers, gothic novels, how-to books, and many more. Popular magazines are converted into discs and braille and mailed to subscribers directly from producers. Music services are provided directly from NLS.

Eligibility for the program is determined by the inability to see well enough to read a conventional print book or to hold a book and turn pages. Individuals wishing service need a brief statement describing their disability from a competent authority such as a medical doctor, nurse, optometrist, ophthalmologist, staff member of a health care institution, or a librarian.

For specific eligibility requirements and more information, write to the National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Library of Congress, Washington, DC 20542.
